Learning Opportunity

Target audience: Gr 10-12 instructional leaders and teachers are encouraged to attend.

In this interactive one-hour session designed for high school educators, we'll explore practical before, during, and after learning strategies that support students in making meaning of complex content across subject areas. Grounded in insights from neuroscientist, Maryanne Wolfe, this session combines hands-on activities with current research to highlight how reading and thinking are changing in the digital age. Participants will leave with ready-to-use literacy tools that can be seamlessly integrated into any classroom to boost comprehension, engagement, and retention.
